AS INFLATION SENDS AMO GASOLINE prices climbing steadily, more and more commuters in Metro Manila are squeezing into trains and buses, putting an enormous strain on public transport services.

On the positive side, Metro Manila's legendary traffic jams are diminishing—but that's only good news for those who can afford to travel by car in the metropolis of 15 million people.

AN ADDITIONAL BURDEN on commuters but a small relief for drivers and owners of public utility vehicles.

Starting this Friday, the maximum fare for public buses, taxis and jeepneys will go up by at least 7 percent, the Land Transportation Franchising and Regulatory Board (LTFRB) announced yesterday.

LTFRB Chair Thomas Lantion said Malacanan ordered the fare increases. Transport groups seeking fare hikes are usually given 10 days to present their respective positions.

Based on Lantion's announcement, jeepneys may charge a minimum fare of P8.50, up 50 centavos, and an additional 25 centavos, or from P1.25 to P1.50, for each succeeding kilometer. Taxis may start charging as "half an" rate of P15. However, there will be no increase in the flag-down rate and waiting time.

Buses, plying Metro Manila routes, may charge an additional P1, or from P9 to P10 for the first five kilometers, with additional 20 centavos for every succeeding kilometer (P1.75 to P1.95). Air-conditioned buses may charge P12 from P11.50 plus P2.25 per succeeding kilometer from P1.75.

The latest round of fare increases is the second in less than two months amid soaring crude oil prices in the international market that have pushed

2 BMI probers quit with guns blazing

YIELDING TO A DEMAND FOR BRIBING, two members of the Board of Marine Inquiry (BMI) yesterday withdrew from the investigation of the sinking of the MV Princess of the Stars.

But veteran ship captain Rear Adm. Benjamin Mera and Commodore Antonio Rosendo were not with guns blazing against Salpido Lines Inc., owners of the ill-fated ferry, denying that they had been bribed.

Mera and Rosendo said they were stepping aside "to preserve the integrity of the inquiry."

Salpido Lines lawyer Arthur Lim asked the board to exclude Mera and Rosendo for allegedly prejudging the case.

"The court or board must not only be impartial but it must appear to be impartial," Lim said. "You sit here as judges. You cannot judge if you have already prejudged."

The inhibition of Mera and Rosendo halted yesterday's BMI hearing, which will be resumed today.

Gov't economists set

VAT propoor projects

By Christine O. Avendaño and Michele Y. Remo

PRESIDENT MACARANGAL-ARROYO'S ECONOMIC MANAGEMENT is preparing to meet with Catholic bishops to seek their help in reaching that poor benefit from the 12-percent value-added tax (VAT) on oil.

The Catholic Bishops' Conference of the Philippines (CBCP) on Monday called on Malacanan to review the laws on VAT and oil deregulation, which it said were pushing up prices and adversely affecting the poor.

The government expects to collect P87 billion this year from the VAT on oil and an additional P18 billion as a result of the raising oil prices.

The President and her economic managers indicated the government was not about to give up the VAT on oil.

But Economic Planning Secretary Angeline Sison said

WARNING TO THE ARROYO administration: A tide of bitterness and anger is rising among the poor that, if unchecked, can lead to danger.

The warning was aimed presen-

"They are silent in the sense that they feel things have not changed. There is no change in policy to help them. All they see is that the government gives out subsidies, but this is not helpful to all, and it will not last," Bishop

Court wants evidence of Jocjoc link to bank accounts

By Margaree C. Ordo

THE COURT OF APPEALS WANTS to see the evidence linking 79 accounts in 17 banks and insurance firms to a multimillion-peso forfeiture fund soon allegedly pilfered off by agricultural undersecretary Jocjoc. It orders the Bureau to follow it closely on government's request to extend a freeze order.

The court's 28-day freeze order will expire on July 21.

Jocjoc's lawyer, Roberto Zubizarreta, charged that there was no legal basis for the freeze order and asked the court to lift it.

Presiding Justice Conrado Macapagal Jr. of the appellate court's first division previously gave the 12-Attorney General's Council (AMGC) and the office of the Solicitor General seven days to submit its proof.

The court said the evidence would enable them to determine whether or not to extend the freeze order for six more months, as requested by the OGC.

Zubizarreta, who gave 18 days to submit his own counterclaim.

"This may go beyond the 30-day freeze order, but we will try to resolve the case as it before the expiration date," Zubizarreta said.

OGC representative Roberto Lim asked the court to extend the freeze order, claiming the accounts were related to the controversial fertilization case.

AMGC lawyer Jelle Alind, on the other hand, asked for a six-month extension of the freeze order.

"We need six months to complete the investigation because the case involves extensive and complex transactions," Alind said.

"Due to leading technology it is possible to make expedient transactions and withdraw the money (without the order to be lifted)," Lim said.

"The purpose of our request is also to find additional accounts and to give us ample time and data to prepare for the filing of money laundering charges," Lim said.

"It appears that the issuance of the petition stemmed from 12 suspicious transactions in 2006 involving the Lufthansa Corp. of which my client was once chair," Zubizarreta said.

Zubizarreta pointed out, "To the best of my knowledge, (Roberto) was no longer chair of the corporation at that time."

Dawn impressed with non-surgical light treatment that can visibly rejuvenate skin after 30 minutes!

Actress Dawn Zulueta is all praise for IPL, the non-surgical photorejuvenation treatment at Facial Care Centre. "One of my problems has always been the eruption of acne, which causes my blemishes," she recalls. "Since my skin is oily, I became prone to it. When I started doing IPL, I realized that my pores got smaller and I stopped getting breakouts as early as the 3rd treatment! Over time, my skin was looking clearer, and complexion-wise, so much better. Before, I couldn't leave the house without putting on some concealer on my blemishes. Now I can get out with my sunblock. I'm confident enough to do without make-up because my skin is clear and even."

What is IPL?

IPL stands for Intense Pulsed Light treatment that uses a broad spectrum of light to painlessly and safely treat different skin problems.

What can IPL treat?

IPL can help remove dark spots, blemishes, freckles, skin discoloration, spider veins, broken capillaries, rosacea and other pigmentation on the face, neck, chest, back, hands and actually improve the skin imperfections they appear. It can also control the level of production and prevent the onset of acne breakouts. This made IPL appeal to Dawn, who has naturally oily acne-prone skin. Since IPL heats up the underlying dermis or deeper layer beneath the skin's superficial layer, it stimulates the skin cells to produce more collagen, repairing their damage and promoting healthier, younger-looking skin.

What results can be expected from IPL?

Aside from clearing up the dark spots and blemishes, IPL gives skin a flawless complexion even without make-up. Pores are refined, giving the skin a smoother texture. Dawn happily claims she can confidently go out with only sunblock on her face because of her regular IPL treatments. Immediately after an IPL treatment, clients often get compliments for having a noticeably healthy, pinkish glow on their skin.

How long before I can see these results?

Visible results are instantly noticed upon the first treatment of IPL. Pores are tightened, and the skin appears to have a more even complexion. Over time, one can see more improvements in their skin's appearance and texture as dark spots, blemishes, freckles, spider veins and other skin flaws are diminished. Dawn noticed the significant reduction of oil and breakouts on her 3rd treatment of IPL, and continued to see an improvement in her complexion after regular IPL treatments.

Using an IPL treatment

How will I feel during the treatment?

The treatment is painless, as it only uses a broad spectrum of light over the areas to be treated. It only takes approximately 30 minutes, and has no downtime. In fact, one can go on their regular schedule right after an IPL treatment. It's that quick and easy!

IPL is an ideal treatment for women who lead active and busy lifestyles because they can conveniently fit IPL treatments in their hectic schedules. With quick visible results and relatively no downtime, it is definitely a must-do for women who want to get beautiful, flawless skin without the fuss! DESPITE THE WORSENING OIL AND FOOD CRISIS, THERE IS HOPE

As a nation and as a people, we have seen and endured many crises. Each time, we overcame the crisis.

Today, again, we are faced with a crisis. This one though is unprecedented in its scale and severity. Food supplies are at their lowest in 30 years. Food prices are at their highest ever. Making the food crisis worse is the rapid rise in the price of crude oil.

We must not lose hope that we will once again overcome adversity.

The International Monetary Fund says that, "Rocketing oil and food prices are increasingly felt around the globe and surging commodity prices could worsen poverty in many poor countries. If food prices rise further and oil prices stay the same, some governments will no longer be able to feed their people and at the same time maintain stability in their economies."

Governments around the world are moving as they realize that they have to reach out and help those who are marginalized to alleviate their suffering to prevent social unrest.

IT IS URGENT THUS THAT THE GOVERNMENT COMES OUT WITH A DO-ABLE ECONOMIC RENAISSANCE, RESCUE, AND RECOVERY PLAN FOR OUR PEOPLE

COPW MAKES THE FOLLOWING PROPOSALS TO HELP THE POOR:

- Stagger increases in the price of diesel at the rate of P2 per week until the P16 under-recovery of the oil companies is covered.
- Subsidize the consumption of the very poor. Government's windfall profits from the VAT on petroleum products can help subsidize the poor's consumption of electricity, LPG, and purchases of basic goods to cushion them from the domino effect of the increase in transport fares and protect them from worsening poverty.
- Removal of the VAT from life line rate electricity users. COPW recommends that the 1.64 million depressed families who consume from 50 kWh to 100 kWh in the lifeline electricity program be exempted from the 12% VAT on the purchase of ONE 11-kg LPG tank per month. The cost of the subsidy is P123 million monthly and can be sourced from the royalties from Malampaya.
- Expand the rice entitlement of the marginalized poor. Civic organizations, religious communities and above all, business firms must do their share to help.

UNDER RECOVERIES IN DIESEL AND TRANSPORT FARE HIKE

- As of July 5, 2008, the average pump price of DIESEL at the gas stations was at P54.48 per liter. The oil companies have to recover their losses based on the difference between the pump price and their cost to produce. P16 is what they need to recover and when added to the present P54.48 price per liter, you can expect diesel price to rise to P70.48 per liter.
- The COPW position, made known at the LTRRB public hearing, is for STAGGERED price increases. This position has also been conveyed to Energy Secretary Angelo Reyes.
- The P16 under-recovery can be recovered over a two-month period at the rate of P2 per liter increase per week. This should soften the shock of record high diesel prices.

RICE FOR THE MARGINALIZED POOR

- COPW is working closely with the DSWD-Nhon Pamilyang Pinoy Program in Pasay City in 37 barangays or 17,480 depressed families.
- They are entitled to 7 kilos of NFA rice a week at P18.25 a kilo or P127.75 weekly Land Bank Access Card.
- COPW urges business, civic organizations, religious communities and congregations to "Adopt a Barangay."

SUBSIDY ON BASIC COMMODITIES

COPW urgently calls on DTI Secretary Peter B. Favila to convene a meeting of the National Price Coordinating Council (NPCC) and all the stakeholders to find out the extent of the price increases (especially for the months of July and August) because of the following:

- The continuing increase in oil prices has a domino effect on basic commodities such as rice, wheat, corn, sugar, canned goods, as well as on steel, tinplates, cement and other construction materials.
- The VAT windfall can be used to subsidize the poor's purchases of basic commodities whose rise in costs is passed on in higher prices of basic goods.
- For food processors, agricultural producers, livestock and milkers whose inventories were already exhausted as of June 30th, we expect price increases in July and August as they will recover the higher cost of production.
- Once the price increases are known, then government shall allocate subsidies from its windfall income from the VAT on petroleum products.

THERE IS LIGHT AT THE END OF THE TUNNEL

COPW expects prices of oil and basic commodities to continue to increase some more in July to September. But they will level off in October when the costs of under recoveries have been recovered. Hopefully, by that time, the subsidies can be reduced or suspended.

COPW urges immediate action to be taken rather than amending the VAT which will take time to revise and will require 2/3 vote by the House and Senate.

COPW appeals to the President to exercise political will to address the problems faced by our country while adhering to the principles of transparency, accountability, and good governance.

COPW also appeals to the Private Sector to help refine and facilitate the implementation of the solutions.

SC tells appeals court to hear pastor's plea

By Lela B. Taberville

THE SUPREME COURT HAS DIRECTED the Court of Appeals to hear the petition of a disavowed Protestant pastor who had alleged that he was tortured by police and charged with murder without basis.

Pastor Benito Guerrero of the United Church of Christ in the Philippines, joined by former Sen. Jovito Salonga, among others, had sought the high court's help to remove his name and stop court proceedings on what he claimed was a baseless murder charge.

The high tribunal said the allegations stated in the pleading contained issues of facts that it could not take cognizance of since it was not "a trial of facts."

But instead of dismissing Guerrero's plea, the high court said it should be brought to the appellate court, considering the gravity of the allegations.

"In view of the seriousness of the allegations of the violation of the liberty and dignity of a citizen who is said to be under detention, and in order that this case be aired upon with dispatch, the Court, instead of dismissing the petition, outright, hereby resolves to remand the case to the Court of Appeals," it said in an en banc resolution released last month.

Guerrero was allegedly abducted on July 27, 2007 and tortured by men in civilian clothes. Later, he was imprisoned by police that he had been arrested for the murder of a certain Neil Dato.

No probable cause
He petitioned the Supreme Court to request an order to have the charges against him dismissed, but his motion was denied, prompting him to seek a writ of habeas corpus.

In the petition filed with the Supreme Court, Guerrero, with Salonga as well as other church groups and a Catholic Bishop, said there was no probable cause to try the accused for the murder.

The petition said Guerrero was never informed of the charges against him and that the witnesses who had implicated him were opposed before the judge who had conducted the preliminary investigation.

Kato said the SC disregarded the facts, ignored the facts during the preliminary investigation, the judge had stated that without the testimony and examination of the witnesses, whom the acknowledged of failing to examine, there would be nothing to send the person to the alleged murder.

But the judge had allowed the murder charge to be filed, the petition said.

Sotto launches 'war' vs dangerous drugs

By James H. Anderson

“We” takes it yesterday formally took over the helm of the Dangerous Drugs Board (DDB) and other agencies involved in the crusade against illegal drugs, but said that as a “new machine” the agency needs five months.

And critics note that it was part of President Managua's Arce's published payback, then-accepted restoring his appointment to the post and looked out at critics, saying politics was not of the question when it came to the campaign against the drug

In his speech during the turnover ceremonies held at the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency (PDEA) headquarters in Quezon City, Sison emphasized that given the limitations of the U.S. in terms of manpower and budget, "halves and quarters should not be in our minds."

It is revealed that based on the report given to him by outgoing DCB chairman Jonathan Amisak, the agency had 187 personnel with an insufficient budget "who are exposed to losing the lives of millions of people and causal cases and to shield 99 million more from the danger of illegal drugs."

Time's matter

Scott assured that his enthusiasm in taking over the post will not be dampened by such factors as he shared his personal motto: "What you think of me is none of my business. Today, I make the war against drugs my business. Come the line of drugs, we will make you our business."

The campaign against illegal drugs, he said, is a war machine that needs constant maintenance and pointed out the work of the legislators, Senator Don Oregon's House who chairs the congressional oversight committee on public order and dangerous drugs "we can find more money that would be

In an interview after the trial, Natta told reporters, "When it comes to the issue of illegal drugs, politics is not at the question" as he maintained that he would focus on addressing the drug menace and buckle down to work.

He added that if critics did not want political dissent appointed to government positions, they should seek a change in the Constitution.

Planning and evaluation

In his farewell speech, Iwazaki described Sotera as a fitting successor to the CEO chairmanship being the principal author of the public law 9445 as the Economic Growth Act of 2002 and expressed certainty that the gains achieved by the agency during his term would be maintained.

He said that since he assumed his post as the first full-time chairman of the DDO, under RA 5435 which created the agency, the rubber industry had

No smooth sailing yet for Hanjin

By Terence Guioa

Bulacan, Philippines, Contributor

AS IT'S "GODMOTHER," President Maangal, Arroyo, wished, the MV Argobito has sailed on safety.

The 4,000-ton container vessel, the first to be made by Filipino workers at a Korean-owned shipyard in Subic Bay, reached the German Port in China on Monday without incident.

"My ship built in this shipyard and, hopefully, very soon also in the support of Mindanao from Hanjin will cover the seven seas of the world for many years," the President said on July 3 when she dispatched the vessel to the high seas.

But her hopes with the shipbuilders, Daewoo Heavy Industries & Construction (PHILIPPINE) Inc., has yet to be seen.

Josep Jose Milan, president of DHI-BC Philippines, is optimistic that business-wise, the company's future will be on track, but it will not be an easy ride. Life and business involve "a lot of solving problems and problems," he said.

Since two years in operation, the better side is that "not working at night experienced a complete ship," Jose said. "With skills accumulated, now production will be more efficient," he said in three, the role of PH-BC workers in the proper design and build of the ship.

The company began today ahead of the long by "strong leadership" and, along with production, give more compensation and welfare to Filipino workers," Jose said.

Rough sailing

For Zambales' Elva Anna Delina, the smooth sailing might just be on the horizon. She said, "I had a rough start right from the start. The labor has been very difficult," he said.

"What he did not say is that a lot of his own money to the safety and health of workers, proper education of about 1,000 workers. He said that he has accepted by the shipyard, would environmental management, and now playing with national and local laws.

"I appreciate Hanjin's trust in its business in this part of Zambales but you know, any company or firm doing like this is not only in terms of economic reasons. The social costs should be addressed, the cost of labor to be doing good business. If you are good in the market, it's sustainable and the cost of doing good," Delina, a lawyer, said.

DHI-BC Philippines has not agreed on several issues.

Realization project

The Aqueduct road project project however is far from smooth, having left the implementation largely to local officials and some contractors of the Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority (SBMA).

Complaints arose even as it gave P20 million for the construction of structures and offices in the municipality, paid P20 million for compensation damages to businesses, and studied and built 27 by the local government.

now, but asked 15 workers, killing 10 men there.

Cardinal in forest

The construction project and the Subic Bay Shipyard's future are at risk of a protected area—this is the company's emphasis with environmental laws.

A Senate investigation showed that the firm had already completed the eighth floor of a 12-story building in July 2007 when the SBMA is said to be an environmental clearance violations that, now, the building and another 12-story building will be built in about 200 hectares of forest and their families.

DHI-BC Philippines handled the SBMA and General Building, but the general contractor is said to be in a state of denial and the 100 hectares to suffer marks.

Shorter hours for Taguig's night spots

New city ordinance also regulates liquor sales, drinking in public

By John P. Arellano

AFTER A MALLING INCIDENT LAST MONTH IN THE Embassy bar at Bonifacio Global City in Taguig, the City Council has unanimously approved an ordinance which renews the city's night spots to close their doors by 2:30 a.m.

According to Manila, these night spots should be shut down by 2:30 a.m. to 5 a.m.

"The purpose is the city is in the way of this ordinance for it means the safety of the citizens," he said. The same ordinance also requires "bar" (night) and "club" (night) to close their doors by 2 a.m.

It also prohibits restaurants, hotels, and activities from selling and delivering alcoholic drinks between 12 p.m. and 6 a.m., except when given a special permit that is issued, otherwise, the law is 2 a.m.

Business establishments that violate provisions of the ordinance will be issued a temporary closure order, pending appropriate investigation.

The closure order shall be issued to prevent persons from consuming alcohol in public places, such as streets, sidewalks, parks, plazas, and other public places.

The ordinance also regulates the sale and serving of alcoholic beverages in establishments such as restaurants, bars, clubs, and other public places.

described Jello Magana and the ordinance was drafted after a brawl inside the Embassy bar last month over one of its patrons and a "bitch" customer.

"Based on police records, brawls and fights inside bars occur after the closing hours," he pointed out in a press conference.

The bar was subsequently closed after by Taguig Mayor George Flano, Jr. on June 25. It has not reopened since.

Magana said the ordinance would mainly affect establishments operating in Bonifacio Global City as their peak hours are usually from 1 p.m. to 4 a.m.

There are about 12 such establishments operating inside the first bus terminal and he is confident that the ordinance would be well received.

"The other establishments won't be affected that much. If they don't want to close, they can keep their doors open," he added.

Flano Mayor George Flano, Jr. mentioned, stressed that they are not trying to drive away businesses from the city.

"No, no, we are trying to live up to our motto as the new business hub of the Philippines," he said.

To LEASE or not to lease:

BPI LEASING answers all your questions on leasing

Leasing vs. Financing

What's the difference between Leasing and Financing?

Under a lease, the lessee owns the leased asset. Under a loan, the borrower owns the equipment.

Which one requires a lower initial cash outlay?

Normally, the lessee in a lease is required to pay a higher down payment of 20% to 30% of the cost of the leased asset. BPI Leasing generally requires lower down payment from the lessee, and may finance up to 100% of the cost of the asset.

What other advantages does a lease have over a loan?

A loan secured for an equipment requires the borrower to put collateral (the equipment) and a lien on the equipment. In a lease, the lessee does not have to put collateral and a lien on the equipment.

- CONSERVES CAPITAL - In leasing, the lessee does not have to put up any money for the leased asset.
- PROVIDES TAX BENEFITS - In leasing, the lessee can deduct the leased asset as an expense on the income tax return.
- GUARANTEES THE ASSET - In leasing, the lessee is guaranteed the leased asset for the entire term of the lease.
- AVOIDS THE RISK OF OBSOLETE EQUIPMENT - In leasing, the lessee can return the leased asset at the end of the lease term without any penalty.
- AVOIDS THE RISK OF DEPRECIATION - In leasing, the lessee can return the leased asset at the end of the lease term without any penalty.

Escalating oil, food prices threaten economy, G8 warns

TOWARD JAPAN—EIGHT OF THE WORLD'S MOST powerful leaders called on Thursday for efforts to cool soaring oil prices, warning soaring fuel and food costs were a threat to world economic growth.

The Group of Eight rich nations did they were in the middle of a routine global growth from monetary cooperation.

But they stepped short of announcing measures to curb oil prices, which they said would be a threat to world economic growth.

The G-8 leaders, including President George W. Bush, Prime Minister Tony Blair, and President Jacques Chirac, said they remained convinced the long-term solution of their economies, noting that emerging economies were still growing strongly.

But the world economy was "being constrained" and risks to growth remained.

They expressed "strong concern" about oil and food prices, which they said "pose a serious challenge to world economic growth, while also posing implications for the most vulnerable and increasing global inflationary pressure."

The threat from inflation, which has led to protest worldwide, has become the top priority for many of the G-8 leaders, which have issued the following statement:

"We have strong concerns about the sharp rise in oil prices, which poses risks to the global economy," the leaders said.

"On the supply side, production and refining capacity should be increased in the short term," they said, calling for "continued efforts" to address the underlying causes of the spike in crude prices to above $140 a barrel.

The G-8 leaders had little to say on the issue of oil prices, which were up about a dollar a barrel in Asia.

The G-8 leaders said oil and food had led to protest worldwide, from riots in thousands of markets across the world and in the United States.

The statement made no mention of the G-8's energy summit, which President George W. Bush will follow G-8 leaders for his summit in "a strong dollar."

The president, of course, had been in a strong dollar and his commitment to a strong dollar.

Thaksin Shinawatra, Thai Prime Minister, said that Thai Prime Minister's interest in international monetary affairs.

Other G-8 leaders did not comment on Thaksin's remarks on the dollar, a Japanese foreign ministry official said.

Despite a weaker dollar, which is contributing to a rise in oil prices, which are priced in the US currency, partly because investors have been buying oil as a hedge against the dollar.

The leaders are likely to announce a proposal of coordinated monetary intervention by the G-8 to prop up the greenback, as European nations may be reluctant to see their own currencies slide as that could cause inflation. AFP

Thaksin on trial for graft

BANGKOK, THAILAND PT television news Prime Minister Thaksin Shinawatra on trial for corruption on Tuesday afternoon after he was caught in a bribery scandal.

Thaksin and his wife Yingluck, who is the prime minister of the Bangkok, were not on trial for the Supreme Court for the opening of a legal case that charged him with bribery for 13 years.

The case is only one of many being launched against Thaksin and his wife, and thousands of his allies, in a government led by Thaksin's wife, Yingluck, who is already facing two cases of bribery.

The Supreme Court is investigating whether Thaksin, a self-made billionaire, used his influence to win a contract for a Bangkok airport terminal, which is already facing two cases of bribery.

"We are confident that our evidence will be enough to prove to the court that Thaksin and his wife are not guilty," said Yingluck's lawyer, who is already facing two cases of bribery.

Thaksin was named three years ago by the Supreme Court in the military, who accused him of widespread corruption, undermining the nation's democracy and eroding Thailand's moral integrity. AFP

San Beda battles PCU; Mapua eyes third straight victory

By Corbett F. Reyes

THEIR BREAK HASN'T STOPPED CONSIDERING it's a short season. That's why San Beda and Mapua have to win the Super Eight tournament to advance.

Whether or not the last game means they are in a winning position, it will be known today when they meet San Beda in a 75-minute game against the Philippine College University (PCU) in the Super Eight tournament. The game will be held at the Centro Alibon in Pasig City.

For PCU, the game is on the line at 4 p.m. and will be a tough one.

"The players were actually nervous during practice. I think we have accomplished a lot, but we haven't won yet," said PCU coach.

The last time defending champion San Beda won a game was in a 75-minute game against the Ateneo de Manila in the Super Eight tournament.

"We know we might get many fans, but we are prepared to play again," added San Beda coach.

Two games into the basketball season, the Dolphins, champions in 2004, lost yet to both the winning column. They lost to the Ateneo, 41-54, in an opening game and Mapua, 77-75, Wednesday.

The Dolphins, with a reputation for being a team that can't win, lost to the Ateneo in a 75-minute game against the Ateneo in a 75-minute game.

San Beda coach, who has been coaching for 20 years, said the Dolphins are playing their second game in three days. Mapua coach, who has been coaching for 20 years, said the Dolphins are playing their second game in three days.

"We're okay with the schedule because the players are also getting fit," said San Beda coach. "This is what we prepared for over the past year."

Fuel price getting so expensive?

Look at the bright side

By Charles S. Rubin

GOOD NEWS COULD STILL arise from a seemingly tragic situation.

A $300 per liter gasoline—other types of petroleum-based fuel could also have within the price, aside to the largest a lot-based possibility and the price that does not discriminate by consumer class, not to say, such high fuel price will definitely inflict pain to millions of drivers and commuters throughout the country.

But let us not forget that there is also the other side of the coin, as it so goes.

Such eventually will not bring the end of transportation as we know it here in the Philippines or will make Filipinos give up their dream of owning a car.

Instead, the rising price of fuel along with an increasing perception that taxes paid prices will be at least as high will bring a paradigm shift, according to Toyota Motor Philippines, which documents the country's automotive market.

More realistic

"Filipinos will still drive their cars, but manufacturers will still continue to build vehicles. However, this time, Filipino car buyers will be more inclined to select a vehicle, meaning they will more compare the pros and cons of owning such a vehicle, even comparing to long-term cost of ownership. Since the public will be paying more attention to the price, car manufacturers—including Toyota—will be more constrained to attempt to make its products even more fuel efficient than they already are," said TMR Press Director for Sales and Marketing Cherry Iba.

He also added that even this early, there is now a noticeable shift in demand for lower displacement engines and for diesel-powered vehicles.

But aside from the shift in the buying behavior, there is also another incentive level against happening.

Motivated

"With fuel as previous a commodity issue for consumers and drivers, retailers are now pushed towards fuel economy marketing techniques," he reported.

In fact, he informed that Toyota will soon embark on a fuel economy campaign to educate the public on improving driving habits and managing better vehicle maintenance to get more mileage from their cars.

"What is disappointed to remind and motivate the public about some simple things that would provide better fuel efficiency. For example, if more drivers will only follow rules of the most important reasons that affect a vehicle's fuel consumption—driving within the speed limit (30 to 130 kph) and removing accessories suddenly unnecessary. They will not only save fuel but also prevent traffic-related accidents," he said.

Adopt sustainable forms

Moreover, the rise in fuel prices will also bring the country closer to adopting more sustainable forms of transport (those which minimize emissions of carbon dioxide and pollutants).

But don't expect hydrogen- or solar-powered cars to suddenly pop out of our roads. "It will take time for the decision to bring the Philippines to that stage," he says.

In fact, even if TMR makes the Vision available in the market, it would cost around P7.7 million, a price that would not be too attractive to its intended market. In fact, instead, should the government give it to TMR could lower the price per unit to P2.5 million.

"The phenomenal success of the Prius worldwide and the continued increase in price of fuel have inspired TMR to do what we could to introduce it locally. But this, we need to emphasize that different market drivers are considered: make it more affordable through exemptions in duties and taxes; ensure dealer service facilities and their best technology know-how; and most importantly, ensure that the Prius could contribute to greater green and sustainable environment and road conditions," he explained. But don't lose hope.

Short-term response

TMR has a short-term response that, in this scenario, is already important in helping Filipinos cope with the rising fuel prices.

"Toyota has efficient technologies—the V6 1100 cc engine, the gasoline-electric (hybrid) and 1000 cc engine (the Eco-Drive-powered model) for instance—it already brought in making Filipinos motivated to take their ride to the road without them worrying so much about their fuel budget (the Vision, we expected by the Department of Energy as the most fuel-efficient vehicle in 2008).

Indeed, while high fuel prices will bring economic miseries, it will also make Filipinos consider things they used to take for granted.

"Toyota could shape consumers and bring new knowledge. Others might consider walking or riding their bikes if they only need to travel a short distance and in the process, become more healthy. Car buyers who now give more weight to their next car's fuel-consumption ratings will not only help in conserving fuel but also make them more able to influence governments and its policy makers to rethink the 'taxes' question. There are more other positive things that would come out of this fuel price issue and Filipinos will surely be able to adapt," he said.

The 'green' Accord

CAN POWERFUL, ENERGETIC BE GREEN? With about 700 million cars already on the world's roads producing 2.8 billion tons of carbon dioxide (CO₂) annually, the car manufacturing sector seems set to lead a charge to do things and do green.

Indeed it is the forefront of this campaign by setting up with regulations and standards that impact in the real of the energy.

Latest green machine

In latest "green" machine is the latest 2008 Honda Accord which is equipped with a new engine that's powerful and fuel efficient as the same time.

"Honda continues to achieve cleaner exhaust emissions, lower the pollution and CO₂ emissions via improved fuel efficiency," says Honda chairman, Takeo Kato. This, too, promotes and greener message.

With a newly developed 3.5 liter VTEC engine with 24 valves, a single accord new (2008) is each cylinder built (capable of 371 hp at 5,200 rpm) and a new generation technology known as Variable Cylinder Management (VCM). The 2008 Honda Accord remains as a performance that is beyond price, without taking in toll on the environment.

Synchronous with harmony

Accord is synchronous with harmony, and this is what the vehicle aims to achieve with the environment. Besides the sporty features and cutting edge design, the sleek literally says of the Accord is low-emission or its engine working synchronously with VCM—Shimada 3.0.

The 2008 Accord powerful VTEC engine runs strong, meeting Euro-4 emission standards, while VCM is an intelligent computerized system that automatically power and cylinders fuel economy is automatically activating the engine's cylinders in response to the driver's needs. The system enables the engine to switch between six, five and four cylinders operation depending on the engine load, driving down cylinders as they are not needed, a effectively decreases unnecessary harmful emissions and improves the overall fuel economy while maintaining the high power output.

Full power

After a full-throttle mode, the 2008 Accord as Accord makes use of the V6 engine's full power, providing the necessary torque for high-speed driving, accelerating along major highways and uphill climbing. Negotiating Mexico Highway as the road to Japan, for instance, becomes a breeze.

For maximum speed and climbing, moderately inclined roads such as the slopes of Mount Apo, the Accord's four-mode VTEC is, balancing both power and fuel efficiency.

When city driving at the slow or steady mode, driving through HCM enabling its VTEC mode, maintaining fuel efficiency while easy driving.

MADE FROM MONOCYCLIC
Benzol has earned street cred for producing small, four-door cars and its latest addition, the 1994 sedan, carries on the sport tradition.

The 2004 subcompact sedan which was introduced in select markets in 2007 for the 2008 model year, was provided in 2006 by the EDN all-wheel-drive (AWD) hatchback. When Suzuki Philippines Inc. launched the EDN four-wheel-drive (4WD) sedan here last May 26, the drive is equip it with a 2.0-liter, 16-valve, four-cyl engine in front of the 2.5-liter engine that is the standard EDN powerplant in the United States and other markets.

By doing so, Honda (Tokyo) plans to be able to price the 300A under competitively and the position it to gain market share from motor bikes like the Honda Juno. But in the process, the 304 motor lost its best-selling point: the 145-hp 2.4-liter engine propelling a subcompact weighing only 1,300 lb. Furthermore, at $9,654,000, the 304A is still pricier than its competitors—the Juno, Yamaha Totsu, Toyota Nino and even its own smaller model, the Suzuki Swift.

On the other hand, in the context of skyrocketing oil prices, Israeli politicians may have been wise to favor the less powerful of a 1.6-liter over the power of a 2.0-liter that is the EPA benchmark but actually being noted for its class. And, theoretically, packing 140-hp into a smaller engine than the 1.6-liter suggests of the competition in the subcompact segment should make a difference in acceleration and justify the higher price.

During the down slope I now drive the 2004 model, however, I found its engine performance late in building. If not understeered, at 50 km per hour and above, the K24hp engine drives lazily while wind and road noise intrude. But at least the ride is smooth, not sloppy so it usually the experience is satisfying, and the 4-speed automatic gear-type transmission runs through the gears quickly. The sports in red, either, double or triple build quality and cost. It and find, on the side under the front, on the side under the rear add to the sports appeal.

The suspension system consists of MacPherson struts in front and rear torsion bars. MacPherson disc brakes in front and drums at the rear are standard. Despite some body-line changes, the 254 remains well like a Suzuki should. The steering radius is subtle (5.7

Significance

The interior is carpeted, questions with considerable headroom due to the low roof. The SR4 makes no straining, but its stance is not the tall roof and big wheels translate into excellent ride with small imperfections visible between the windshield and pillars contributing a small, but not disturbing, distraction.

Not including all these things would have pushed up the MSRP even more. The KKK urban car has had adequate safety features—four-point SRS airbags and antilock braking system, child seat anchorage and seat-belt-shift lock. The trunk is just as deep and massive (31.5 liters of luggage space) with a big opening and flat floor. The only drawback, so far as cargo room is concerned, is that the rear seatback of the MS4 sedan cannot be folded down. This means that long objects cannot be accommodated.

Summing up, the 324 makes little sporty and is well equipped, but it is also pricey and would use more power. On the other hand, it is sturdy, built quality to superb, the ride is smooth if not quiet (the 316's speakers seem to drown out the engine, wind and road noise), the cabin is reasonably spacious for a subcompact and runs gear seems a cinch. For the daily commuter and running about town, the 324 will do nicely.

Creative storage ideas

WITH SO MANY high-rise dwellers and compact homes, storage has become a necessity. We must be very creative to find ways for "practical storage."

There are many ways to use the various containers available. In creating storage, follow these simple steps:

1. First identify what you need help.
2. Assign the space.
3. Look for the perfect container to accommodate the items you want to store.
4. Some tips to consider:

1. Use through-the-door containers to maximize the space you want to store.
2. Make sure you have access to items you feel you will use often.

5. Consider storage containers if you are storing delicate items.

In a close storage house built for us, no provisions for shelving or drawers, these additional items are needed to organize books, files, and other personal items.

etc., install a three-layered drawer unit. The space can accommodate more items as they are organized into bins.

Have about 10 plastic bins or three metal ones—they are great space savers because you can stack them up. You can also use under-the-bed containers and store them there. You can use a photograph of the items in the office as you know what is in there.

If you have more little things lying around the house, you can use these plastic bins to store them. There can be help on the outside yourself. They are just for the storage, looking, of the supplies, etc.

Creating intimate space ...

As a group of people plan at the local level, allowing it to be viewed from both the living room and dining space. The dining table can be returned during party time.

The dining table can be part of the whole picture space of your home. "If there are no guests, the dining table can be the focus of your space," says the architect. Or, it can be used with the use of dining glass panels for guests.

The dining table can be transformed into a bed at night, saving the space for a quiet room where you can relax and sleep.

Intimacy

To create intimacy, build a bed in the living room. The dining table can be used as a headboard, and the dining table can be used as a headboard. The dining table can be used as a headboard, and the dining table can be used as a headboard.

Like the rest of the room, the dining table can be used as a headboard, and the dining table can be used as a headboard. The dining table can be used as a headboard, and the dining table can be used as a headboard.

DESIGN SOLUTION The dining table and bed headboard are the way to fit the bed in a room without cluttering it
